

SCIENCE LEAGUE: The Heroes of Public Health

Saturday, May 31, 2014 • 12:30–4:30 pm

Experience first-hand the thrill of laboratory science! Students in grades 6–10 are invited to spend an afternoon at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences learning about careers in public health and engaging in hands-on science activities.

Parents — you're invited too! Take a tour of the state-of-the-art Arkansas Public Health Laboratory — which is just down the street — and watch live demonstrations of a number of laboratory functions. Also, leave with several at-home experiments you can complete with your child on a rainy day. Refreshments will be served.

FREE! Seating is limited!
